

Call for papers

Intersections of finance and society 2022

15-16 September 2022
City, University of London, UK

Events of recent years have highlighted how central money, debt, and finance are to the workings of contemporary society. Financial and economic policy occupied a key place in the response to the public health crisis triggered by Covid-19. In the current re-emergence of geopolitical conflict, the strategic deployment of financial power plays a crucial role. Other trends, such as the growth of personal debt, continue to reshape the structures of modern life in profound ways. These developments signal the need for a continued deepening of the conversation among the diverse perspectives that have emerged in the interdisciplinary study of finance.

Building on the success of previous editions, the FSN 2022 conference invites a variety of contributions that aim to extend and deepen the field of finance and society studies. We welcome the submission of papers and panels, as well as less traditional formats. Contributions from beyond academia – from artists, activists, policymakers, or practitioners – have been integral to the success of previous conferences and are again warmly invited.

The conference is organised by the Finance and Society Network (FSN) with support from the School of Arts and Social Sciences and the City Political Economy Research Centre (CITYPERC) at City, University of London.

Keynote addresses

- Money has no value
Samuel Chambers, Johns Hopkins University
- Finance/security infrastructures in historical perspective
Marieke de Goede, University of Amsterdam
- Platform economies: Beyond the North-South divide
Janet Roitman, The New School for Social Research

Contributions are invited in two formats

- Papers; abstract of up to 300 words
- Panels; panel proposal plus 4-5 paper abstracts

Themes on which we encourage contributions include

- Financial infrastructures
- Valuation regimes
- Finance and inequality
- Law and finance
- Leverage and power
- Assets, assetisation, and the asset economy
- Financial dystopias and apocalypse
- Finance and ecological crisis
- Finance, sustainability, and sustainable capitalism
- Racial capitalism
- Finance and platform capitalism
- Digital economy, AI, and the politics of fintech
- Tokens, tokenisation, and encryption
- Gendered finance
- Finance, nationalism, and populism
- Finance and growth regimes
- Welfare states after financialisation
- State-banking nexus
- Finance and corporate power
- Finance and development
- Subordinate financialisation
- Critical macro-finance
- Central banking and monetary policy
- Systemic risk and macroprudential governance
- Public finance
- Finance and security
- Theory and philosophy of money
- Histories of finance
- Heterodox economics and finance theory
- Temporality and futurity
- Volatility cultures
- Poststructuralism and finance
- Gift, debt, tribute, pledge, claim
- Contemporary regimes of credit, credibility, and reputation

- Money, finance, and psychoanalysis
- Aesthetics of finance
- Financialisation and contemporary art
- Finance and the occult

Please submit abstracts and proposals by 1 June 2022 to Amin Samman and Martijn Konings at the following address:

intersectionsfinancesociety@gmail.com

The editors of Finance and Society encourage paper submissions from conference participants. For more information on the journal please visit:

<http://financeandsociety.ed.ac.uk>

Full programmes for previous FSN conferences are available here:

<http://financeandsocietynetwork.org/events/past-events>